

Our Story

Public Health Management Corporation has been dedicated to providing high-quality, evidence-based programs and services to address social determinants of health in communities for nearly 50 years. We maintain partnerships with city, state, and federal governments; foundations, businesses and community-based organizations to deliver direct programming, intermediary services, and research and evaluation.

How We Care

Our work is grounded in science, research and data, and spans physical, behavioral and mental health care; substance use and opioid use treatment; health promotion and prevention services; criminal justice initiatives; workforce development and economic inclusion; education, child welfare, and family social services.

Who We Serve

PHMC serves a diverse population of individuals across Philadelphia’s communities.

of the people PHMC serves are at risk.

On average, each client is served by at least 2 PHMC services.

Over 500,000

services delivered in Primary Care and Behavioral Health alone.*

Who We Are

With more than 3,000 employees, we reflect the communities we serve. Our personnel landscape naturally fosters many subcultures, encompassing a diverse, dynamic and innovative company culture. Our core values reside in collaboration, health equity and access, innovation, diversity and inclusion, growth, development and wellness.

Our Staff

Minorities

Asian

Black or African American

Hispanic or Latino

Two or more races

Women

Philadelphia residents

Our Board of Directors

Minorities

Women

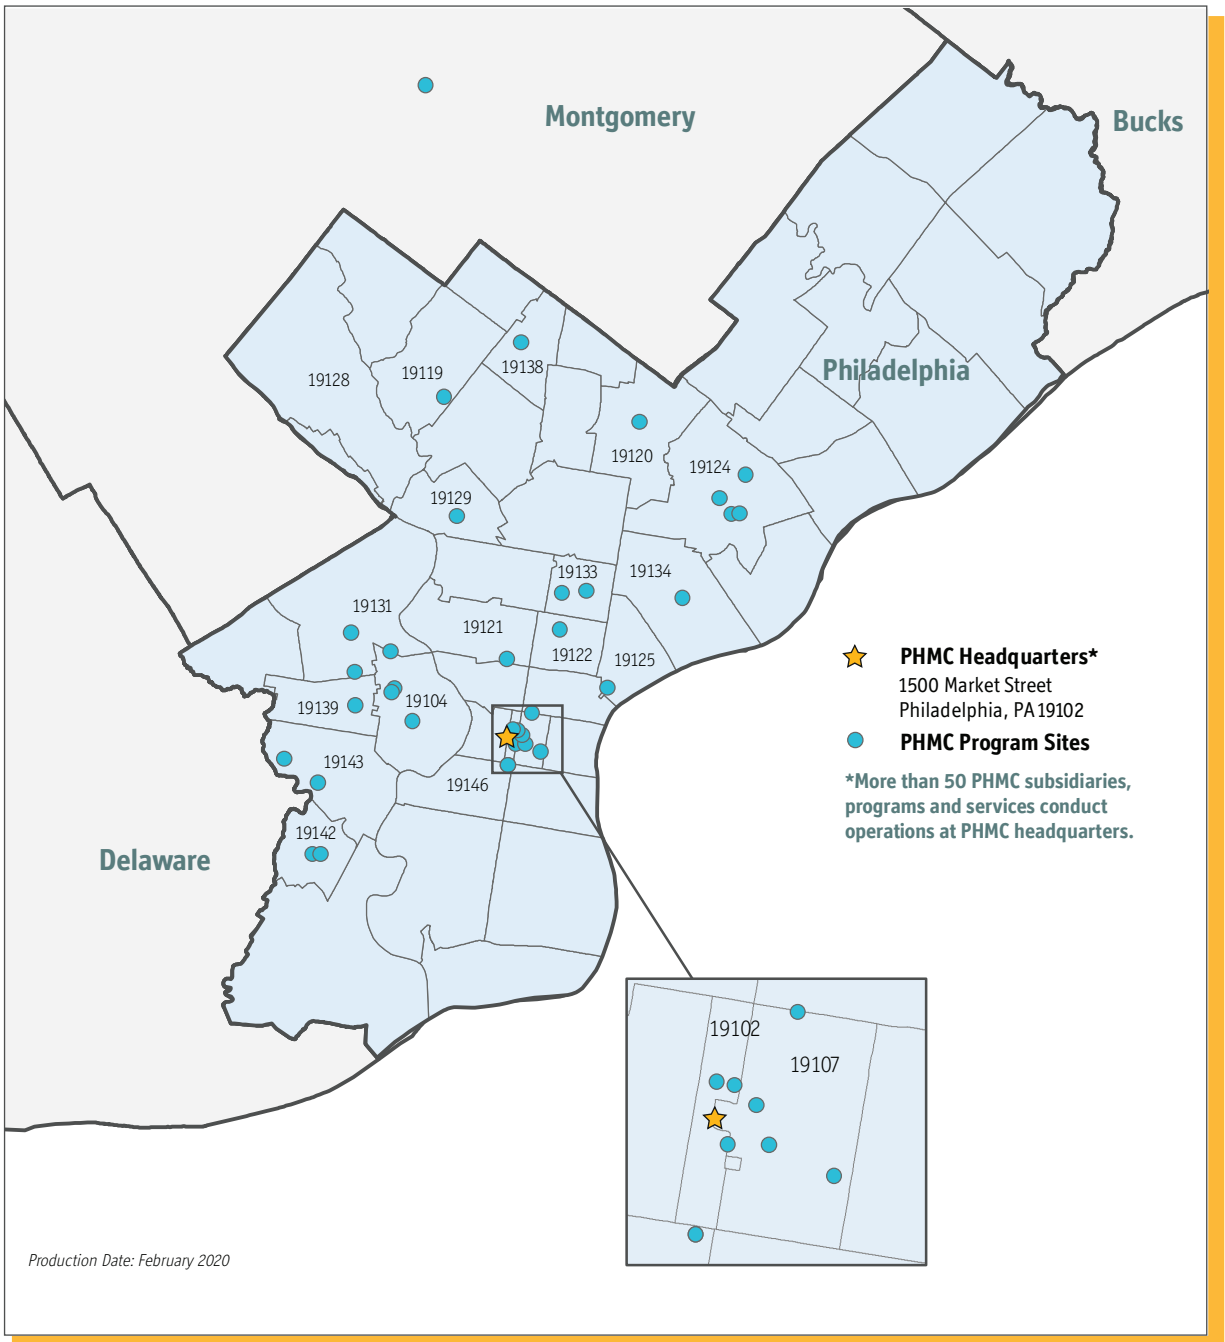

Philadelphia residents

*July 2020 – June 2021

Greater Philadelphia Footprint

PHMC's therapeutic, holistic and culturally sensitive programs and services are provided to constituents in all corners of the city and throughout the region. Several PHMC and subsidiary services are headquartered in particular districts, while also accessible to anyone living in communities throughout the city in some of our most vulnerable communities.

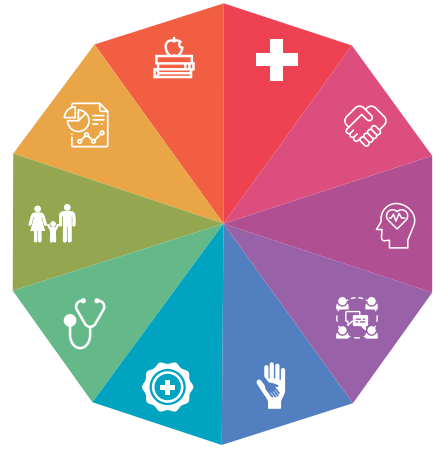

We are proud to operate more than 120 programs, 125 research studies and a network of subsidiary organizations in more than 30 locations locally.

PHMC operates as one of the largest and most comprehensive public health organizations in the nation. PHMC is the Public Health Institute for Pennsylvania and Delaware and the Pennsylvania Public Health Association. Memberships and affiliations include: National Network of Public Health Institutes, American Public Health Association, Alliance for Strong Families and Communities, National Council on Behavioral Health, National Association of Community Health Centers.

Continuum of Care in the Community

Our reach and capacity extend beyond the Greater Philadelphia footprint to reach individuals and families statewide and communities nationally.

Health Services

Comprehensive primary health care, family planning, disease management, homeless and social services.

Community Engagement Services

Behavioral health treatment and related services designed as an alternative to incarceration; services for homeless and special populations.

Nurse-Led Care Services

Programming designed to enhance community health through nurse-led models of care.

Special Education & Support Services

Early intervention, education and special services for children and adults with special needs.

Community Mental Health Services

Continuum of school and community-based and trauma-informed behavioral health services to help children, youth and families build skills, achieve goals and realize potential.

Health Promotion Services

Programs that supports individuals, families and communities in creating and sustaining healthy lifestyles.

Research & Evaluation

Range of public health services research, evaluation and assessments to help organizations understand their communities, improve programming, and strengthen impact.

Addiction Services

Comprehensive, therapeutic, holistic and culturally sensitive inpatient, outpatient and residential programs for individuals with substance use and co-occurring disorders.

Early Childhood Education & Family Services

Provides direct service, training and capacity building initiatives, facility expansion projects, and policy development; quality early learning experiences for children.

Children & Family Social Services

Resources and tools for caregivers to raise safe and healthy children; provides outlets and resources to youth and young adults to transition from the foster care system toward independence.